FISCAL COURT FIXES LEVY AT 50 CENTS

Some Bonds Paid and Numerous Appropriations Made.

MORE NEW BRIDGES.

Road Graders to be Put to Work by Supervisor
D. T. Cranor.

Fiscal Court adjourned Saturday after a busy session of a week. The county levy for the year was fixed at 50 cents, seven cents for the purpose of paying semi-annual interest on county railroad bonds and forty-three cents for general purposes.

Small-pox claims amounting to about $6,000 were allowed.

The sum of $5,068 was appropriated in payment of five county railroad funding bonds, bearing date of July 1, 1897. These bonds were destroyed.

Dr. John D. Clardy was allowed $721 to reimburse him for money advanced for the extension of the Newstead turnpike road.

It was ordered that $334.30 be paid to the officers of the regular registration and election for the year 1904.

The sum of $1,668 was appropriated and ordered paid to the Forbes Manufacturing Co. for installing a heating plant in the new jail.

An appropriation of $800, or so much as may be necessary, to build a forty-foot steel bridge over Thompson's Creek, on Hickory Withe road, was made. The sum of $700 was also appropriated for the construction of a forty-foot span steel bridge over Montgomery Creek, on Dickinson Mill road.

W. B. Long and Madison Kelly (white), and Ben Garrett (col.) were released from the payment of poll tax.

It was the judgment of the Court that in working the roads of the county during the year 1905 road graders be employed and teams for operating same be hired instead of purchased by the county. An order to this effect was made. It was further ordered that the contract and management of road graders be left with D. T. Cranor, Road Commissioner, and that he be instructed to employ all labor necessary and to purchase one new road grader and all repairs for the old graders.

JURY COMMISSIONERS.

Circuit Court Adjourns After a Session of Six Weeks.

The Case of Ed Moseley, the negro boy who turned State's evidence in the pen Friday was taken to Ed-dyville Sunday. Dave Cunningham, who was given one year on a charge of grand larceny, appealed his case and sentence was suspended. He and Finch, the latter one of the Pembroke negroes convicted of murder, will remain in jail until the court of appeals acts upon their cases.

Five of the seven men sentenced to the pen Friday were taken to Ed-dyville Sunday. Dave Cunningham, who was given one year on a charge of grand larceny, appealed his case and sentence was suspended. He and Finch, the latter one of the Pembroke negroes convicted of murder, will remain in jail until the court of appeals acts upon their cases.

The verdict in the suit of H. W. Deason against the L. & N., in which plaintiff was awarded $2,000 damages, was set aside and a new trial granted.

In the suit of John Brooks, guardian, etc., against the T. C. Railroad a new hearing was also granted.

The attachment against the property of H. H. Tilly, issued on a plea made by his wife in a petition for divorce, was dismissed. The court ruled that the defendant should pay $25 each month for the maintenance of Mrs. Tilly and their two children until the further order of the court in regard to the matter.

Dr. John P. Bell, Edgar Robinson and Dr. J. A. Southall are the jury commissioners for this year, recently appointed. They met last week and performed their duties by filling the wheel according to law.

Myrtle Leavell was granted a divorce from her husband, Harry Leavell.

Court adjourned Saturday, sine die.

"CRAPPED" OUT.

Police Raid a Game and Bag Participants.

The police raided a crap game Saturday night and arrested seven participants. A plea of guilty was entered in the City Court yesterday morning and Judge Knight assessed a fine of $20 and cost against each defendant. The list was as follows: Ed Chappell, Jim Hargraves, Jim Deale, George Gray, Dillard Smith, Herbert Callis and Ed Moseley. The last named is the negro who is out on bond, in connection with the Pembroke murder.

Joe Carter, col., charged with gaming, was dismissed.

TEN NEW MEMBERS

Admitted to the Local Chapter, U. D. C.

The Daughters of the Confederacy met at Hotel Latham Saturday afternoon, in regular session, with the largest attendance the chapter has ever had, 25 responding to roll call. Ten new names were voted on and accepted. A delightful program was rendered, consisting of a historical paper by Mrs. A. J. Casey; reading by Mrs. Hunter Wood, Jr., and a violin solo by Miss Lillian Gary and a vocal solo by Miss Martha Duke.

MORE SUITS

Three divorce suits have been filed with the Circuit Clerk within the past few days. Mitchell Rives asks a legal separation from Betty Rives, charging abandonment. Betty Slaughter wants a divorce from Rich Slaughter. Cruel treatment is alleged. They have been married twenty-four years. Ernae Baynham vs. Jim Baynham is the style of the third suit and abandonment is charged.

UNION IN SIGHT

Two Branches of Presbyterian Church to Combine.

Members of the Cumberland Presbyterian church in this city, says the Henderson Gleaner, who favor the union of church with the Northern Presbyterian church, have received gratifying news from the presbyteries in Indiana. Fifty-two of the presbyteries in the church have voted for the union and forty-three have voted to oppose it. There remain seventeen presbyteries to hear from.

The presbyteries in Indiana met last week. They all favored the union of the churches. The action of the Indiana body practically settles the question. For the remaining presbyteries are understood to favor the union movement almost unanimously.

The question will be settled this fall at the meeting of the general assembly of the church. The movement has been on foot for about two years and has been the cause of much discussion among the members of the church.

BANKS COLLAPSED

And Fell to the Floor a Corpse.

Ned Banks, col., of this city, expired suddenly while sitting in a chair in a hospital at Paducah Friday. Banks had been in charge of the McCracken authorities for several months but when brought before the court Thursday the case was dismissed. He was suffering from consumption and was immediately taken to the hospital. His mother, who lives here, had requested that he be brought home and nurses were dressing him when he fell from the chair and died in a few minutes. His body was brought here and interred Sunday.

TO OUR FARMER FRIENDS.....

Clarksville, Tennessee, January 3rd, 1905.—This crop of tobacco, being of better quality and shorter in average yield, are two reasons for expecting better prices. Besides, full confidence as to the final outcome, may be based upon the wise conclusion of the farmer to prize and put his tobacco in condition to hold for the best demands, only to be found on the open markets. The force of combines, who have ignored open markets in order to fix lower prices in the country is broken, and we predict an era of greater prosperity will come to tobacco growers. The farmers will not regret the move they have made, and the more compact their organization, the greater their influence.

As we have done for the many years past, we solicit the patronage of farmers. As heretofore, our best efforts in their behalf can safely be relied upon. Our warehouse is open day and night, and provided with good, comfortable free quarters for teams and teamsters under the same roof.

RUSSELL SAGE QUITS

LITTLE BY LITTLE THE OLD MAN LETS GO.

Not the Miser Generally Represented—Rigid Economy Necessary in Early Life Becomes a Habit—Given to Advising.

From New York comes the intelligence that Russell Sage, the greatest money lender that the world ever saw, is requesting his office less and less, sometimes an entire month separating his visits, and that in a short time he will retire altogether from the financial world and strife of money-getting. All the enormous transactions which less than a year ago the great financier would trust to no hands but his own are now being manipulated by clerks, not even the name Russell Sage entering into the deals. It is not hard for one to guess the reason for the action of Mr. Sage in casting business to one side and retiring to private life. The fact is his iron constitution is beginning to feel the wear and tear which constant attention to office duties necessitates, and after so many years of steady labor the old gentleman is himself forced to admit that his fighting days are practically over.

Many persons who have achieved their information concerning the character of Russell Sage from hearsay declare that the man has been a miser all his life, and neither with nor old age would ever be sufficient excuse to cause his retirement from the business world; but, although some time ago it seemed that their declarations were very true, it is now certain that Mr. Sage believes that he has enough of this world's goods, and intends to step out.

Along another fact, The great financier, as much as his transactions would seem to point to it, never was a miser in any sense of the word. His policy was to eliminate from his schedule all facts and fancies, and never to buy anything the purchase of which he might have cause to regret. This fact is illustrated by his declaration, at the time, then the tariff issue was so widely talked of, that the suit which he wore cost him only $5.50, and he was not ashamed to wear it, because it served as an index to his position on the great question, namely, that low duties made cheap clothing.

Russell Sage made it his policy to turn everything which came his way into money, and was always willing to lend anybody cash, providing the proper security was forthcoming. His friends tell a story about him and his money-making instinct. He had received an advertisement from a theatrical firm enclosing a check for four cents to pay for the time which he was obliged to spend in reading it carefully. The same sort of a letter was sent to thousands of other New Yorkers, but it is recorded that the only check which was cashed was that made out in Mr. Sage's name.

A secret of the success of this great money-lender is that although he was happy to have others borrow from him, he was never during his whole career known to ask pecuniary aid of any person. His economy has always been manifest in things of small value, as his nature at one time rebelled at the thought of paying three cents for a one-cent paper. The incident occurred one evening after working hours when he was bound for his train. He had reached the depot and found that from the nickel which he handed the newsboy he had only received two cents in change. He immediately retraced his steps and demanded the correct amount from the boy.

Russell Sage always has a bit of advice at the end of his tongue for any young man who may be near to receive it. He believes in the church, and declares that every one should give to the Christian movement as much as he or she can consistently afford.

Greed for money, although it finds a place in this great man's makeup, is not supreme in his nature. Throughout his life Mr. Sage has always enjoyed a fine physique, and along with this came his love for out-of-door pleasures. He has been a horse fancier since the first day that he was considered old enough to sit astride one of the animals, and, in fact, has owned several colts which were declared to be fairly fast.

Between his schemes for money-making run many morals and the texts for many sermons which any preacher would be proud to set before his congregation. Russell Sage may be compared to the country banker, whom David Westcott so neatly described, and regarding his joy at turning transactions into money and his love for thoroughbred horses, the author seems to have had the money-lender in his mind when constructing his characters.

NOT GUILTY

Was Verdict in Case of Man Charged With Wife Murder.

Robt Mitchell, of near Guthrie, who had been on trial at Clarksville for two weeks charged with the murder of his wife, was acquitted Saturday. Mitchell broke down when the jury returned the verdict and cried like a child. During the trial the wife of Tour Power of New Providence, one of the jurors, was taken ill and died. The trial was stopped for a day and Power, accompanied by the sheriff and driver, was driven twenty miles in a closed carriage to the old family burying ground near Port Royal, where he attended the funeral. Mrs. Power was formerly Miss Ida Duerson, of Trenton. Mr. Power accompanied by the sheriff, visited his wife several times during her illness and was with her when she died.

DR. A. WEBBER, A PHYSICIAN OF EARLY DAYS.

Last to Be Buried In the Old Westside Cemetery.

LEADER IN HIS DAY.

Prominent in Medical and Church Circles—Other Pioneer Contemporaries.

No citizen in the early history of Hopkinsville was more prominent than Dr. Augustine Webber. He was born in 1790 and graduated from Georgetown College about 1811 and adopting medicine as his profession, located first at Danville and a little later, probably as early as 1813, moved to Hopkinsville and for 54 years was one of the most substantial citizens and leading physicians of the town. Soon after locating in Hopkinsville he was married to Miss Nancy Tannehill, of Nashville. They were the parents of fourteen children. Five of these children who died in their childhood sleep with their parents in the old Westside Cemetery. One daughter died about the time she budded into young womanhood. Several of the daughters married and five of them have descendants. Their husbands were Messrs. Torian, Lampton, Breathitt, Pentecost and Arnold. Three of them are living, the rest are all dead. Mrs. Breathitt is the wife of Maj. John W. Breathitt and Mrs. Pentecost is the wife of Rev. Geo. E. Pentecost, one of the most distinguished Presbyterian ministers in New York City. Mrs. Arnold and her only child, Miss Julia Arnold, live in this city. Dr. Webber's present descendants are three daughters, eighteen or twenty grandchildren, and a lesser number of great-grandchildren and one or two families of great-great-grandchildren. But of all these descendants none bears the name of Webber.

There was one son who reached manhood, Charles, a brave dashing young fellow, who, in search of adventure, joined Gen. Walker's expedition to Nicaragua more than 50 years ago. There was a call for three men to lead a desperate forlorn hope, into the jaws of certain death. Charles Webber volunteered to be one of them and lost his life in the hopeless endeavor. He was buried in the foreign country where he fell.

Dr. Webber continued to live in Hopkinsville until 1867. His practice was very large and he accumulated much property. His parents, Philip and Ann Webber, came here to end their days with him. The mother died in 1812, but the inscription on the father's tomb is obliterated.

In June, 1818, the Hopkinsville Baptist Church was organized at the house of John Pursey, near the bridge on the Canton pike, with nine members. On the first Sunday in August, 1818, Dr. Webber was received as the first new member. He at once became prominent in his church work and was so gifted in speech that in 1821 the church proposed to grant him the privilege of exercising his gifts in public exhortations, but he modestly asked that the matter be left open for further consideration.

In 1835 he was one of the messengers appointed to form a new association. In all church matters he was ever in the lead, a mainstay of the little church as it increased in strength from year to year. In 1838 the lamented Prof. J. W. Rust wrote for Perrin's History a sketch of the Baptist church, in which he paid this tribute to Dr. Webber and his wife:

"Among these who have held membership in this church and worshiped with this people may be mentioned Dr. A. Webber, perhaps one of the most thorough scholars in all that relates to our faith and practice that has ever adorned our common membership. To him the Bible was the inspired oracle of a living God. He walked by faith and not by sight. He feared God and eschewed evil. His faith never abated. With heavy professional obligations pressing upon him as a physician, he seldom failed to be in his place as a church member, ever ready to help in any good work; while his pious wife, rivaling if possible his christian enthusiasm, stood by his side in full sympathy with every move that looked to the spiritual life and growth of the church. Her gentle, loving, earnest and intelligent work in the Sunday School will never be forgotten. The names of these two humble, loving christians will ever be linked together in the memories of all who knew them—who have drawn inspiration and encouragement from their noble, consecrated lives."

What more could be said of any christian whose race is run? Mrs. Webber died in 1840 and years later Dr. Webber married the widow of Judge John H. Phelps, who at her death was buried in the new cemetery. The Webber homestead was in the rear of the court house, in the house now used for law offices. This was the family home until 1867, when Dr. Webber retired from practice and went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Julia Torian, in New Orleans. About 1871 he moved to Louisville, then 81 years of age. His daughters had all married and his family consisted of his second wife and her daughter, Miss Lucy Phelps. In December 1873 the good old doctor passed away, in his 84th year. One of his last requests was that his body be laid beside his first wife in the old cemetery. On Dec. 23, 1873, he was buried in the family lot. It had been many years since any interment had taken place in the old cemetery, abandoned about 1858. His body was the last one buried there, but his grave has been roughly handled by vandals. Pieces of the headstone still remain and the inscription is preserved, but the piece containing it lies many feet from the grave from which it was removed. His funeral was attended by many persons who still live. Dr. T. G. Keen was the pastor of the Baptist church at that time and conducted the service. Maj. J. O. Ferrell had begun teaching in the school house adjoining the cemetery a few months before and taught there 30 years. The writer of this sketch a few years later attended the same school.

Dr. Webber was remembered as a large, fine-looking man before enfeebled with age. He had brown hair and beard, but around his mouth was clean-shaven. His eyes were blue, his face broad, his features regular, and his expression kindly and benevolent. His youngest daughter, Mrs. Arnold, has features strikingly like those of her father. Like her mother, Mrs. Arnold is a teacher in the Baptist Sunday School and so is her daughter, Miss Julia Arnold, who is also a teacher in the High School department of the city schools.

Though his grave is unmarked, the city of Hopkinsville has perpetuated the memory of Dr. Webber by naming a street in his honor.

Allen.

Near the southeast corner of the cemetery is the Allen burial lot. Five graves are marked by a slab. Two wives and two children of Samuel Allen and the wife of Henry Allen, who was a daughter of John Summers. She died in 1836 when 54 years of age. Her husband was probably buried in the same lot, but his grave is not now marked.

Henry Allen and wife, Elizabeth, were the parents of nine daughters and one son who lived to be grown. The only son was Sam Allen, married a sister of the late John N. Allen and went South. His son, Dr. Allen, is now a dentist of Huntsville, Ala. The daughter married into various families and many of their descendants still live in the county. Among the grandsons of Henry Allen are Messrs. Frank M. and Geo. R. Pierce, who live a few miles south of town. The Allens lived in the country, the homestead being the place upon which Mr. R. S. Gary now lives. They were good people and their descendants are among the best people in the county. Sam Allen was a brother of Henry and was a tobaccoist who was in partnership with Guy Kinkead. Henry Allen's daughter, Susan, married a Kinkead and is buried not far from her mother's grave. Henry Allen helped to organize the Hopkinsville Methodist church.

Breathitt.

The graves of three members of the Breathitt family can still be located in a lot in the east side of the cemetery. The monuments state that the graves are those of the wife and two children of James Breathitt, father of Maj. John W. Breathitt, and a near relative of Gov. Breathitt. Mrs. Breathitt's name was Elizabeth and she was a daughter of Peyton Short. One of her children was named Peyton Short, the other was an infant. Mrs. Breathitt died in 1827, aged 23 years, when her son, the present postmaster of Hopkinsville, was two years old. Maj. Breathitt married a daughter of Dr. A. Webber and they have several sons and daughters and a large number of grand-children. Maj. Breathitt, now more than 80 years of age, is still hale and hearty and in the full possession of all his faculties. He is one of Hopkinsville's oldest and most distinguished citizens. He was a brave officer in the Federal army, county court clerk for more than 20 years, county judge one term and is now serving his third term as postmaster. In all his long life, though an ardent Republican, he has enjoyed the respect, confidence and the friendship of all parties. Three of his sons are men of prominence and influence and the family in all its branches is worthily descended from two of the pioneers of Hopkinsville whose memory should be kept green and whose names should not be forgotten.

Crow.

About the center of the cemetery is the grave of Mrs. Eleanor G. Crow, wife of Philip Crow, who died in 1829 when only 17 years of age. In the grave with her was buried her infant, only fifteen days old. The Crow family has disappeared altogether from Hopkinsville. Philip and his brother Wayman went to St. Louis and became prominent and wealthy citizens. Years afterwards Wayman, an old man, came back to Hopkinsville and visited the grave of his brother's wife and had it located after. He is long since dead, but the grave of the girl-wife who died 76 years ago is still in better condition than most of the other graves.

SEWERAGE
FRANCHISE
TO BE SOLD.

Dr. Petrie's Sanitarium to be Exempted From Taxation Five Years.

TO WIDEN 17th STREET.

School Election Ordered For the First Saturday in May.

The City Council Friday night ordered the sale of a franchise for the construction of a sanitary sewerage system in the city. It is to be built by private capital at an estimated cost of $68,000. A proposition to build a system of the kind by public taxation was voted on and defeated last fall. The franchise will be offered for sale April 22.

The scale of charges for use of the sewer is as follows:

Six-room residence or less, $8 per year; seven to ten rooms, $10, eleven rooms and up, $12; business houses $15 to $30, according to floor space and number of employees; factories, department houses, flats and all other houses not mentioned above to be charged according to the size of sewer leading from them, prices of which will range from $15 for four-inch pipe to $30 for eight-inch pipe.

An ordinance was also passed authorizing the establishment of a sanitarium by Dr. C. B. Petrie, to be exempt from taxation for five years. It will cost $20,000.

Mr. H. D. Wallace offered to donate nine feet of his property to widen West Seventeenth street, if the city will move his out-buildings and build a new fence. The proposition is very liberal, as the residence property is most valuable. The matter was referred to the Street Committee.

An election was ordered for May 6 to elect two school trustees. The trustees whose terms expire are J. E. McPherson and J. T. Wall.

VERDICT STANDS

In Nortonville Man's Suit Against Railroad Co.

Motion for a new trial was refused in the case of Munell Wilson, who recovered $1,000 damages against the L.C. railroad company for alleged false arrest in June, 1932. On his way from his home at Nortonville to Louisville, J. D. Steele, a fellow-passenger, lost his pocket-book and suspicions of members of the train crew were aroused against Wilson and when the train reached Louisville they had him held and searched. The pocket-book was not discovered and Wilson, according to his proof, was so overcome by the humiliation that he suffered a nervous breakdown and being forced to give up his employment was sent to a sanitarium to recover his health.

GET A WORM

If Your Lungs Are Not Strong Enough.

Washington, April 9.—"The tapeworm is the natural enemy of the germ of consumption and the latter cannot exist when the other is present," says Consul Canada at Vera Cruz, Mexico, in a report just received at the state department. The consul states that two eminent scientists have discovered that the tapeworm prevents the organism from being infected with tuberculosis bacilli, and it has been proven in the case of a consumptive affected with a tape-worm that he completely recovered his health. To establish the efficacy of this remedy, the doctors injected a liquid prepared from the taenia into several consumptives which resulted in complete cure.

High Pressure Days.

Men and women alike have to work incessantly with brain and hand nowadays. Never were the demands of business, the wants of the family, the requirements of society, so numerous. The first effect of the praiseworthy effort to keep up with all these things is commonly seen in a weakened or debilitated condition of the nervous system, which results in dyspepsia, defective nutrition of both body and brain, and in extreme cases in complete nervous prostration. It is clearly seen that what is needed is what will sustain the system, give vigor and tone to the nerves, and keep the digestive and assimilative functions healthy. From personal knowledge, we can recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla for this purpose. It acts on all the vital organs, builds up the whole system, and fits men and women for these high-pressure days.

MAX MOAYON'S
MARITAL WOES
AIRED IN COURT

Attorney Feland's Wit Stirs Up the Sleepy Louisville Divorce Mill.

MONEY GONE TO ASHES.

What It Costs to Play Society In The Swim of Large Cities.

Louisville, Ky., April 7.—A trade against the habits of society women is found in the answer filed to day by Max J. Moayon to the suit for divorce filed by Birdie M. Moayon. The document was written by John Feland, a lawyer of Hopkinsville, Ky., in which place his client's relatives are wealthy citizens.

The suit for divorce was filed March 17. The wife alleged abandonment and asked the custody of two children, Beatrice and Jessamine, aged 10 and 8, and alimony, suitable for a man to pay whom he was possessed of a fortune between $30,000 and $70,000 well invested and yielding a handsome income.

The answer declares that the plaintiff is a society woman, and has, besides a fine voice, other accomplishments, such as bridge, whist, poker playing and an entree into such society that the children are never allowed to interfere with her musical or social engagements.

Was Worth It Once.

Moayon denies that he abandoned his wife, and says that last autumn he was received in the relation of husband while she was visiting the home of her uncle, Alex Meyer, in Louisville. He denies that he is worth $60,000, although he was once worth that amount.

To gratify her every whim and caprice, Moayon says, he began to spend his fortune for his wife just as soon as he came into possession of his property. He does not spare himself and admits:

"I had a mania for the races and other forms of gambling and indulged in the same to an extent greater than was good, morally or financially."

Proceeding, the answer says: "I was indulgent to the plaintiff and endeavored in every way to grant her every wish. The suggestion of a diamond, a carriage, a piece of cut glass or bric-a-brac always met with quick delivery on my part. When I first came into my inheritance I thought it would never give out, and, having money to burn, proceeded to burn it. My wife aided me to burn it."

The couple were married in 1894. It is alleged that in 1900 the wife left Hopkinsville and came to Louisville with her belongings and children. He began negotiations at once for a reconciliation, and consented to place in trust one third of his estate for his children, but under the agreement she had the use of its income. His wife then returned.

A Second Honeymoon.

Moayon states that on December 6 he and his wife left on their second honeymoon for Hot Springs, Ark., and that the trip was the beginning of another round of prodigality on the part of both. They concluded that Louisville was not big enough for them so they hid away to Cincinnati, where they established themselves in a suite of rooms at the Palace Hotel.

After tiring of a "butterfly" existence, Moayon says, he and his wife concluded to keep house. They leased a mansion on Walnut Hills and began to furnish it. The court is advised to judge their expenditures by the single instance of a rug worth $200. Moayon states that in furnishing the house it was decided that the plaintiff's "dear mother," Mrs. Augustus Meyer, should come and help them select things, and that when she finished her work as purchasing agent the Moayon mansion on Walnut Hills was a dream. After a short time, however, it is alleged, Mrs. Moayon tired of such entertainment as Cincinnati could afford and determined to move on to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Atlantic City, Norfolk and other sum-

BABY MASSAGE
MASS OF SORES

Ears Looked as if They Would Drop Off—Body Entirely Covered with Humors—Three Doctors Could Not Cure—Child Grew Worse.

CURED BY CUTICURA IN TWO WEEKS

Mrs. George J. Steese, of 701 Coburn St., Akron, Ohio, tells in the following letter of another of those remarkable cases of torturing, disfiguring skin humors daily made by Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura ointment, after physicians, and all else had failed: "I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering babies to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was eaten away, her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of soap and box of ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body was as clear as a new-born babe. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents, which is all it cost us to cure our baby, after spending many dollars on doctors and medicines without any benefit whatever."

mer resorts. Continuing, the defendant says:

If I attempt to give to the court any detailed account of the third excursion, and how I did everything in my power to pander to the inordinate ambitions and appetites of my wife, to say nothing of the diamonds she demanded for her personal adornment, the recital of the same would become tiresome and sate this court ad nauseum."

During these days it was the practice, says the defendant, to sell property whenever money was needed. The result was, it is declared, that the property all went, and that Moayon now holds only two small pieces, from which he derives an income of $15 a month.

In some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid. For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children. In other conditions the gain is slower—health cannot be built up in a day. In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment, a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.

PATRIOTIC D. A. R. WOMEN OF NATIONAL SOCIETY PREPARING FOR ELECTION.

Effort to Be Made to Select as President Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks
— Mrs. Donald McLean a Candidate.

As the time approaches for the biennial election of the officers of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the electioneering and wire-pulling which is carried on by the 40,000 members of this patriotic order is interesting study, and would afford many a valuable hint to their more professional brothers of the great political parties of the country.

Every two years there is an election for president general. The ordinary ones

MRS. DONALD McLEAN.

are exciting enough, but the coming one promises to be intensely interesting.
The situation is peculiar. The present incumbent of the office, Mrs. Charles W.
Fairbanks, wife of the newly-elected vice president of the United States, has held the office for four years. The Washington contingent of the society, for the sake of the prestige which her husband's position would give her, and incidentally, then, and contemplating a coup d'etat by which she may be retained as president general. The only other candidate in the field for the high office is Mrs. Donald McLean, regent of the New York city chapter, D. A. R.
The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, according to a Washington dispatch, who is considered an authority on all historical data of the society, was organized in Washington, D. C., August 9, 1890. The founders were Miss Eugenia Washington, Miss Mary Desha and Mrs. Ellen Harden Walworth, the only three women, who, owing to the season of the year, were near enough to the capital to respond to the call. Thus the society, which numbers 40,000 women to-day,
was modestly started. Its raison d'être was man's injustice—the refusal of the Sons of the American Revolution to admit women to their society.
The society was formally organized October 11, 1890. In October, 1890, at a meeting held at the home of Mrs.
Cabell, the colors of Washington's staff, dark blue and white, were chosen, and the motto "Amor Patriæ" adopted, which was afterwards changed to "Home and Country." A seal bearing the figure of Abigail Adams in the costume
of 1776, and seated at a spinning wheel, the suggestion of Miss Mary Desha, was adopted.

On June 8, 1891, the society was incorporated under the laws of congress for the District of Columbia, as "The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution." The signers of the act of incorporation were Mrs.
Caroline Scott Harrison, Mrs. Henrietta Greely, Mrs. Sarah E. Goode, Mrs.
Mary E. McDonald, Mrs. Mary E. Ca-
bell, Mrs. Helen M. Boynton, Miss Eugenia Washington and Miss Mary Desha.
The officers of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, consist of a president general, vice president general, in charge of organization;
20 vice presidents general, one recording

Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, at the time of her election as president general, one historian general, one surgeon general, one chaplain general and
three other officers as shall be found
necessary.

MRS. CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS.

and corresponding secretary general,
two registers general, one treasurer
general, one historian general, one surgeon general, one chaplain general and
three other officers as shall be found
necessary.

Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, at the time of her election as president general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was the wife of the senator from Indiana. Her nomination carried out the aim of certain members of the society since Mrs. Harrison's death.
R. This sentiment has met with much opposition outside of Washington since Mrs. Harrison's death.
Mrs. Donald McLean, who looms to the front as the successor of Mrs.
Charles W. Fairbanks, upon the expiration of her term as president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is perhaps as widely known as any woman in official life.

THESE FURS COME SCATTERED FAR AND WIDE.

Skins of Great Worth Obtained by Trappers and Sold at Wholesale
— Creatures with Expensive Coats.

Cynics tell us that we never can know
a fur by the name it sells under, there now being such perfection in the art of dyeing and treating skins that are to mimic any and every variety of fur from their humble real selves. But though, doubtless, in the fur business there are shams galore, yet the valuable fur-bearing animals are by no means extinct.

History and romance give added worth to the fur, the fur that for so long has been in favor of royalty; but to our way of thinking it is by no means chief among beautiful furs, and it is a rather trying to wear its dead white color, unadorned by the black tips, would be almost impossible for the average complexion. Many people think the ermine is naturally dappled with black tips, and in winter, the time when it is captured, is pure white, save the tip of its tail, which is very black. It takes num-

SEA OTTER AND SEAL.

bers of the creatures to get enough black tips for the furrier to prepare the ermine
after the fashion demanded to-day.
But the ermine is not the case, for the uncommon white be retrieved by enough black to make it attractive.

In summer the ermine is a sort of mahogany brown, but in winter nature changes his coat to white, so he may fit in with the snowy wastes about him and escape the eye of an enemy. But the small thing is set upon by relentless and unrelenting hunters, its life sacrificed for the sake of its beautiful coat. Ermine is obtained in northern Europe, northern Asia, and the Hudson Bay district.

A white fur of singular beauty is the fox, so fashionable this season for young girls. The Arctic fox, the smallest of foxes and one of the most beautiful, is found in Labrador, Newfoundland and generally in the Arctic regions of North America; also in northern Russia, northern Asia, in Iceland and Spitzbergen. In summer this fox is a bluish gray, like the ermine putting on a snowy coat in the winter. The fur exactly fits the season over its feet; its tail is very bushy.

In contrast to the furs just mentioned is the Russian sable, a gorgeous fur, wonderfully soft and silky, its rich distinguishing becoming to everyone so fortunate as to be able to wear it. It is a very expensive fur, so many kinds needed, the animal difficult to capture, the trapper undergoing much hardship and no small danger in the pursuit of this particular representative of the weasel family. The sable is found at its best in the second month of the year in cold Asiatic Russia, and in searching the wastes over which the tiny creatures roam not a few trappers lose their lives. The price of $500 has been paid for one skin, an ordinary skin is valued at from $25 to $100.
The sable is also found in Kamchatka,
in Labrador forests, and on the borders of northern Canada.

In America we have a sable of less value than that coming from Asiatic Russia, one known as the river sable.
Not so costly as the Russian sable, yet it has a high value. The animal from which it is procured is about the size of a large cat, and it is gray with black spots. A gray fur of silky softness and exquisite tone is the chinchilla, and we Americans bring over large quantities of this fur every year from Europe.

Sealskins cost from 30 to 40 per cent.
more than they used to, though yet, strange to say, the fur is not so liked by Dame Fashion as in days when its market value was considerably less. Seals are found almost exclusively now about Alaska, and are not captured farther north to the extent they once were. The young seals are richest black in color,
the older ones shade from black to gray,
the gray on the shoulders, and they are rich in brown beneath. Though seal skin seems to have lost some of its prestige, it remains one of the most beautiful of the dark furs.

The fur of the fox of Asia Minor shows thick tufts on the thighs and spots of deepest jet on the breast. The sea otter is another fur highly valued, and this animal is located in Alaska itself, and Alaska seals.

KATE WARING.

Century Spoons.
"Grandpa courted grandma on this sofa," said the pretty girl, shyly.
"Yes," said the old man, "I courted
you on this sofa."
"And you courted me here."
"Grandma! It must have had lots of spoons."
"As many as you buffet."
"Well, I'll just add another," and he did—A LACED LEADER.

FOIL BREATH.

Foal breath is caused by foul stomach
acids, turned long, low, or irregular appetite, heavy or full bloated feeling in stomach, "water brash," or some eructations of gas, heavy or bilious headache, distention, bloating, or some eructations of "blue," irritable temper or nervousness and humors are present in every case.
To tone up and invigorate both stomach and liver and start the digestive processes into healthy action, there is, to say the least, no superior remedy so effective as the active medicinal principles extracted from the roots of native American plants, and it is a remedy made, so effectively that any one may take without fear of forming an appetite for stimulants.
Its benefits and cures are lasting and not simply the temporary exhilaration sometimes experienced from strong alcoholic preparations.

No man is stronger than his stomach,
therefore, when the stomach is weak it should be promptly toned up and put in order to the end that it may properly digest and absorb for never assimilate the food which otherwise can not strengthen the body. You cannot find a medicine that will do this more promptly and permanently than "Golden Medical Discovery." A whole train of evils, and many results when the stomach becomes foul, torpid and inactive, and naturally enough, when the stomach trouble is cured they, being dependent thereon, disappear. Hence it is that Rheumatism, headaches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous sores, kidney ailments and various other diverse appearing maladies yield to the golden medical discovery. Bear in mind that the "Discovery" is an active, potent medicine and not a beverage
to be taken for its exhilarating effects.
It is made to cure disease, not to appease
a craving for stimulants.

Don't be when you are over-persuaded into taking something else which may be said to be "just as good." Take only "Golden Medical Discovery," which has more than a third of a century's record embracing many thousands of well-attested cures. As it has cured thousands of people, it is a sure cure for all ailments.

Some Hopkinsville People Profit By Neighbor's Experience.

It's a wise man who profits by the experience of his friends and neighbors. Here is a chance to do it and every man, woman or child in Hopkinsville who knows the misery of a bad back, the nervousness and restlessness caused by kidney complaint or the annoyance of urinary disorders, will show uncommon wisdom to profit by this citizen's advice.

J. W. Pritchett, retired grocer of 752 East 7th St., says: My back has given me a great deal of trouble. The pain was not continually severe, but came on by intermittent spells, which were sometimes very painful especially after over-exertion of any kind. Being constantly on the outlook for something to relieve me, I happened to read of Doan's Kidney Pills, and was so impressed with the testimonials as to their worth, that I procured a box at Thomas & Tramm's drug store. The pills benefited me in every way and I hope that my endorsement will be the means of extending relief to some other sufferer.

CRY OF WOLF! WOLF!

THRILLING STORY OF A CYCLIST'S TERRIBLE RIDE.

Ignores Hasty, But Timely Warning, and Has to Ride for His Life—Overtaken But Is Saved.

There were obvious signs of thunder when I set out to spend the evening with my friend at 8—A bright harvest moon shone down, lighting the road before me. Away, almost on the horizon, a heavy bank of clouds growled ominously and at frequent intervals.

Riding steadily, I was at length brought to a standstill by the road branching off in opposite directions. My memory of the way up to this point had held me good. But now I hesitated, doubtful which of the two roads I should take. Whilst in this dilemma, I noticed the figure of a man approaching.

"In this the road to 8—?" I asked. Without hesitating, the man hurried on. I repeated my question. This time he heard, and, half turning, nodded his head.

"What is the matter?" I shouted. "Wolf—escaped—from menagerie at 6—"

he gasped, in a terrified voice, and vanished round the corner. Launching myself at his cowardice, I mounted my machine and was soon sliding along the quiet lane. Strangely, up to the present, I had felt no alarm at the thought of a wolf roaming the country. But presently I began to experience a distinct sensation of nervousness.

By now a heavy bank of clouds obscured the moon. The darkness was intense. Still I rode on, making good progress, my path at times lit up by dazzling flashes of lightning.

Suddenly my lamp went out. Dismounting, I struck a match, and had just succeeded in kindling the wick, when a strange noise fell upon my ears. I listened intently.

The regular pit-pat of some approaching animal sounded clearly in the dark stillness. The instant a flash of lightning lit up the road, I looked! I gasped! In the brilliant glare a gray-brown object was visible, rushing headlong towards me. "The wolf!" I shrieked, and, springing on my bicycle, fled, filled with mad panic.

"WOLF—ESCAPED—FROM MENAGERIE," HE GASPED.

How I kept my balance I cannot say. The mortal dread of what would happen should I fall seemed to give strength from my limbs. Once I thought I had outdistanced the creature. I glanced behind, as another flash turned darkness into day.

Pit, pat, with red tongue lapping and swinging from side to side, I saw the brute, clinging tenaciously to the chase. By now my knees ached intolerably, my breath came in sobs, and I felt as if my chest would burst. Then, just as despair had overwhelmed me, I saw the lights of a farmhouse not 20 yards ahead.

I pulled up abruptly. A moment later my feet beat wildly against the door. Suddenly a dark object bounded towards me. My mind reeled, and I collapsed on the doorstep, unconscious!

When I came to my senses I found myself seated in a big arm-chair, bending over me a broad smile overmantling his face, stood the master of the house.

"Where is the wolf?" I asked, feebly. "The wolf?" he laughed. "Why, there is the terrible, sleeping peacefully at your feet! It was our old sheep-dog all the time. He mistook you for my son. Well, well, he gave you a little exercise!"

System to Prevent Railway Collisions.

An interesting change was recently made in the signaling system of New Zealand's railway, which, it is thought, will make collisions impossible. It is called the "tablet system," the essential point being that no engineer is allowed to leave a station without a tablet in his possession, and the machines are so made that it is impossible for two tablets to be out at the same time. It is claimed by railroad experts that under this system two trains cannot be on the same section at once, so that the danger of collisions is entirely done away with.

SUFFERINGS OVER.

Death of Federal Judge's Wife After Many Years of Suffering.

Louisville, Ky., April 8.—Mrs. Louise Gowen Evans, wife of Judge Walter Evans, of the United States district court, died this afternoon. The passing of Mrs. Evans was peaceful, although she had been a sufferer for many years. She practically had been an invalid for thirty-five years, though she would frequently rally and apparently enjoy a season of health. The attack which resulted in her death came about three months ago. She was a daughter of the late John B. Gowen, of Hopkinsville.

KIRBY RECOVERING.

Shot Through Head, But Will Get Well.

The condition of Ward Kirby, who was shot by Isaiah Dunning, at Mannington, ten days ago, is reported much improved and the chances are now in favor of his recovery. Kirby was shot just under the eye and the ball passed through his head and came out between his shoulder blades. The wound, it was thought at the time of the shooting, would prove fatal. Dunning is under bond for his appearance to answer any indictment that might be found against him. He claims self-defense.

Curious Skunk-like Tree.

A curious member of the vegetable kingdom has been discovered in the Far East. It is a species of acacia, which grows to a height of about eight feet, and when full grown closes its leaves together each day at sunset and curls its twigs in the form of a pigtail. After the tree has settled itself in this way for a night's sleep like most sleepers it objects to being disturbed. If touched it will flutter as if agitated and impatient at the interruption of its slumbers. The oftener the foliage is molested the more violent becomes its shaking of the branches, and at length the tree emits a nauseating odor, which, if inhaled for a few moments, will cause a violent headache.

AMERICAN BOOK CO'S.

Contracts Declared Void By Superintendent Fugua.

Frankfort, Ky., April 8.—By a decision of the Mason circuit court and the court of appeals the $100,000 bond of the American Book Company deposited with the superintendent of public instruction is forfeited, and the company having refused to give a new bond for its old contract, Superintendent of Instruction Fugua has issued an order against its books and declares its contracts void. This does not affect the state adoption contracts, most of which are held by the same company.

Ordinance.

Whereas, Dr. C. B. Petrie is contemplating the erection and establishment of a sanitarium upon the lot of ground known as the Crumbaugh property, situated upon the corner of Seventh and Clay streets in the city of Hopkinsville, in which persons afflicted with diseases will be scientifically treated, and surgical operations performed. And, to that end, he has asked and requested the city of Hopkinsville, through its Mayor and Board of Council to encourage and assist in said enterprise by exempting said sanitarium property from taxation for city purposes for a period of five years, in consideration of certain public services hereinafter set out.

And Whereas, The Mayor and Board of Council are of the opinion that the establishment of said institution in the city of Hopkinsville, will be of great benefit to the citizens of said city and be of great value and assistance to all unfortunates whom disease has afflicted, and believing that said institution will fill a long felt want inside city, and greatly contribute to the general health and prosperity of the community.

Therefore, Be it ordained by the Board of Council of the city of Hopkinsville, Kentucky.

That in consideration of certain public services hereinafter mentioned the whole of the said sanitarium property situated upon the corner of Seventh and Clay streets in the city of Hopkinsville be and the same is hereby exempt from taxation, for city purposes, for a period of five years.

That in consideration of said exemptions the owners and operators of said sanitarium hereby obligate themselves to give as much as two hours service in each and every week during the term of said exemption free to any person or persons. Provided that when such person presents himself or herself for said free service, he or she shall be the bearer of a warrant signed by the Mayor of the city of Hopkinsville, authorizing the bearer to receive such free services. And such free service shall be of the best afforded by owners of said sanitarium, and is to consist of any treatment or minor operation given or performed by owners of said sanitarium, which the condition of such person may require at the time.

This ordinance is to be in full force and effect from and after its adoption and publication.

Adopted April 7, 1905.
R. C. WEST, Clerk of the Board of Council of the city of Hopkinsville, Ky.

Approved April 7, 1905.
JOUETT HENRY, Mayor of the City of Hopkinsville, Ky.

TOWN LAW

Is in Danger of Expulsion From Paducah.

Paducah, April 10.—An ordinance forbidding the cow trespassing upon the streets of the city will be brought in at the next meeting of the board of aldermen and will pass the aldermen by a solid front, as all voted for the ordinance to be presented at the next meeting.

It is also believed that the council will pass the much needed ordinance, as the main friend of the cow who assisted in the defeat of the ordinance heretofore is no longer a city father.

Mayor Yeiser stated that he will sign the cow ordinance if it passes both boards, providing the ordinance is reasonable.
